

South High Grad Wins Top Grant

Timothy Chang, spring semester student body president at South High School, has been awarded one of 17 scholarships sponsored by the California Labor Federation, AFL-CIO.

Chang, 17, of 208 Vista del Parque, will enroll in Stanford University this fall, where he plans to major in science.

An Explorer Scout, Chang is a member of the TRW Space Explorers Post 348 and holds one of the 13 original Space Explorer badges awarded by the Boy Scouts of America.

Chang first became interested in labor management relations during a National High School debate in 1965, when he debated the issue of compulsory arbitration. In his winning essay, Chang noted that "the government steps out of its proper role when it sets down a settlement unilaterally." He also pointed out that compulsory arbitration in universal-ly opposed by management, labor, and government "as being impractical and repugnant to our democratic ideals."

Veterans Aid Story Outlined

The story of veterans' benefits, from earliest beginnings in 1636 to the current activities and programs of the Veterans Administration has been published in a 410-page volume, "Medical Care of Veterans," available for $1.25 through the U.S. Government Printing Office.

America's concern for her veterans is traced from the care extended to wounded defenders of early American colonies to present-day programs which total $6.5 billion annually.

Until 1930, when the Veterans Administration was established, veterans affairs were handled by six government bureaus. Operations have grown so that the Veterans Administration budget is now the third largest item of Federal expenditure.

THE BOOK follows the tremendous growth and impact of the VA during the immediate World War II post-war years, under Administrator Gen. Omar Bradley, through the career of William J. Driver, the present Administrator. Driver became a member of Bradley's VA staff in 1946.

The book was compiled under the direction of Robinson E. "Bob" Adkins, who, during his 44 years of service with the VA and predecessor agencies, acted as the top assistant to four different chief medical directors. Before entering Federal Government employment in 1919, Adkins served for two years in World War I as a member of the American forces in Europe.

Adkins wrote the book following his retirement in 1963.

Readings Slated for New Play

Readings for Chapel Theatre's production of "Three Penny Opera" will be held at the theater, 4164 Pacific Coast Hwy., Wednesday and Thursday, July 5 and 6, at 7:30 p.m.

Paul Aaron, casting director for the Los Angeles Music Center Group, will direct the production, which will open Sept. 8 for a five-week run.

Persons auditioning for the production should prepare their own material for a three-minute reading. Musicians will be interviewed at the same time.

Aaron has announced plans to update the popular musical by staging it in a Sunset Boulevard setting.

Visitors to Get American Flags

American flags will be given to adults and children accompanied by adults at American Savings and Loan Association branches through July 10.
